PROSPECTS.

Judge W. H. Holt's Views On Porto Rico.

Kentucky Jurist Now Serving There as United States Judge Describes the Judicial, Political and Social Conditions.

Judge W. H. Holt, United States Judge for Porto Rico, is in the city on his vacation. He is now visiting his son-in-law, Mr. George H. Alexander, and he will remain with him until nearly the time for him to sail from New York, which will be September 27.

When seen this morning, Judge Holt talked very interestingly of the prospects of the island, of its steady improvement under American rule, and of the judicial and social conditions now in vogue there.

"There are two systems of courts in Porto Rico," said Judge Holt, "just as there are in this State. There are the insular courts, and the federal courts. In the insular courts the language used is the Spanish, and the system of judicial procedure is much the same as in the American State courts. Mr. Jas. Harlan, a son of Justice John M. Harlan, is Attorney General of the island, and by virtue of his office has general control of the prosecutions in the insular courts.

"I am the only the Federal Judge on the island, and sit there both as District and Circuit Judge. An appeal can be taken from my court to the Supreme Court of the United States. All proceedings are required to be in English, and an interpreter is always at hand to translate the words of Spanish witnesses into English.

"I introduced the jury system on the island where it was before unknown. At first I had gave doubts if the system would work well, so unused were the people to the jury system, but the result has been very gratifying. Only men who can speak English are allowed on juries, and the result is that nearly all my juries are intelligent men. The percentage of native Porto Ricans on my juries is about 50 per cent.

"This fact frequently works well, for in case the interpreter makes a mistake in translating the words of a witness, there is nearly always a jurymen to correct him. The District Attorney is Mr. N. K. B. Pettigill, of Florida.

COMPOSITION OF THE BAR.

"The bar that practices before me is largely composed of American natives, for the fact that only the English language is spoken, and also because the native practitioners have never been educated in American law, makes it difficult for them to compete with Americans. It is, however, not an iniquitous sight to see a native lawyer making a speech in my court in Spanish, with an interpreter at his side, translating, sentence by sentence. There is, I think, a fine opening for young lawyers in Porto Rico, particularly such as can speak Spanish. A young man trained in American law, and either able to speak Spanish or willing to learn to speak it, by hard study, after arriving in the island, could hardly fail to acquire a comfortable practice, in about one-fourth of the time usually necessary to build up a practice in this country.

GOVERNMENT OF THE ISLAND.

"The present Chief Executive of the island is Gov. William Hunt, formerly of Montana. He was appointed by the President and is one of the best men imaginable for the place. He lives at San Juan, where the seat of government is, and he has been able to keep on perfect terms with the natives and to prevent anything like a radical controversy. He has a regular cabinet, consisting of a Secretary of State, Secretary of the Interior, Auditor and Attorney General, and these, with three native Porto Ricans, make up what is called the Executive Council. This body exercises the same power as a State Senate in one of our States, and has exactly similar legislative powers as the House of Delegates, which is elected by the people. There is a qualified suffrage. The Governor has a power of veto, which enables him to stop almost anything that he disapproves of, but of course the lower House is granted the fullest powers in sending measures up to him.

SOCIETY ON THE ISLAND.

"San Juan, where I reside, is a city of about 25,000. I also hold court twice a year in Ponce, the largest city of the island, and Mayaguez. The society in these places is extremely pleasant. In San Juan the army has a post under the command of Col. Buchanan, and ships are always touching at the harbor, which gives the society of the town a touch of both army and navy life. There is the colony, of which the Governor is the head, and the rapidly growing colony of Americans. In addition to these there are not only in the large cities, but all over the island, large numbers of educated, intelligent and interesting Porto Ricans. These mingle freely in the society of Porto Rico and give to the society of the capital an originality it could not have otherwise.

THE PROGRESS OF EDUCATION.

"The United States government has spent, and is still spending large sums in the cause of education. Public schools are in progress all over the island, where English is taught, and all the elementary branches taught in English, just as they are in Louisville. Many of these teachers are women from the United States, others are native Porto Ricans, who are proficient in the English language.

VALUE OF THE ISLAND.

"The longer I have lived in Porto Rico the more I have been convinced of its value to the United States. The soil is wonderfully fertile, and four crops can be raised every year. The Porto Ricans on the whole are amiable, polite, proud of the fact that they are now Americans, and anxious to draw closer to the people of the States. The chief crops on the island are coffee, sugar cane, tobacco, fruits and vegetables. There is no refuse land on the island, as all of it is either under cultivation or is used for pasturage.

ISLAND NEWSPAPERS.

"There are a number of newspapers in the island, and two or three in San Juan. They have a good wire service with the United States, and we are able to follow pretty closely what is going on in the United States. The usual custom in San Juan is to print a paper with English news on one page and a reproduction in Spanish on the next.

"I believe this covers my impressions of Porto Rico after a residence of nearly three years. I am confident that the island will steadily grow in value, and that in the progress of time it will become more and more like an American State."

Judge Holt is well equipped for the important position he holds, and his reapportionment by President Roosevelt is considered certain. Prior to going to Porto Rico, Judge Holt was one of the most prominent lawyers in the State of Kentucky, and was formerly Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky. In this capacity he administered the oath of office to the members of the last constitutional convention, and as Chief Justice handed down the opinion declaring the new constitution according to law—Louisville Post.

A Crank.

It is by no means the worst thing in the world to be called a crank. I find as I grow up and down through the earth that wherever I meet a man with sufficient individuality to stand against impurity and shame of every kind, too honest to get rich by underhand methods, and too brave to be a cowardly conformist, he is called a crank. Whenever a woman is found who thinks more of the brain than the hat that adorns it, she is called a crank. Wherever a man is found who honestly believes life holds better things for him than to become a dancing popinjay and a social success by fine clothes and society manners, he is a crank. Wherever a young girl is found who laughs at fashion and wears a gown to please herself rather than conform to a passing style, who stands by a friend at the risk of becoming unpopular, and who is a law unto herself by the dictates of her own pure, sweet, womanly heart, she is a crank. Discoverers are cranks. Philanthropists and poets are cranks. Christopher Columbus was a crank, and yet Chicago, after 400 years, turned itself head over heels to do him honor. Ah, well, when you count on your fingers the world's most famous cranks, and note the outcome of their crankiness, who would not choose but go down upon that despatch list?—A writer in Chicago Herald.

An Unconventional President.

President Roosevelt has recently furnished some characteristic revelations of his true democracy—be careful to read the word with a little "d." He is undoubtedly the most unconventional President that ever occupied the White House. He is never dignified, but he is entirely independent of the shackles and restrictions which some are disposed to put on high office. Being naturally unconventional and democratic, he shows on his character as President just as he would as plain Theodore Roosevelt. Some little incidents of recent occurrence illustrate this. Just before the President left Oyster Bay, a committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen called to invite him to attend their annual convention at Chattanooga. The chairman of the committee was a Democrat. Most Presidents would have given the committee a formal hearing, and let it go at that. President Roosevelt accepted their invitation and then invited the committee to dinner to meet some other guests. Afterward the chairman said: "Why, that man is no aristocrat. He's a good enough Democrat for me." If there is any such thing as aristocracy in this country, Theodore Roosevelt was born into it, but he is too much of a gentleman and too genuine a democrat to show it.

At Hartford the local managers of his reception foolishly ignored the mayor in the arrangements, because, before his election, he was a salesman in a clothing store and not a "leading citizen." As soon as President Roosevelt learned of the situation, he sent word to the mayor that he would be pleased to see him at the private house where he was to stay, and in his speech in the evening he mentioned the mayor by name among those whom he thanked. Under the circumstances most officials would have thought it best not to mix in a local affair of that kind, but President Roosevelt disregarded conventionalities and tried to rectify what he thought was a wrong.

At another place when the President was asked about a demonstration of the previous day he said: "It was a whopper." Now, "whopper" is not exactly a presidential word. The dictionary class it as "colloquial," and it borders on slang. But everybody knows what it means. The dictionary gives the preference to the spelling "whopper," and defines it as "something uncommonly large of the kind; something astonishing." The President said "whopper," and everybody knew what he meant. Some Presidents would have said: "It was an exceedingly large and impressive demonstration." That might have been more conventional, but it would not have been more expressive than "whopper." Finally, when the President met his old guide, Bill Sewall, at Bangor, he gave him a handshake with "I am glad to see you, Bill," and invited him to a dinner the Governor was about to give. As the guest of honor the President had a right to invite a friend, and he invited Bill, and Bill went. In this the President acted out his real and sincere nature without stopping to think of conventionalities. He is for men, and he is one of them.

"Here I Am."

A drunken man staggered into a church one Sunday and sat down in the pew of one of the deacons. The preacher was discouraging about prevalent popular vices. Soon he exclaimed: "Where is the drunkard?" The drunken man was just far enough gone to think the call personal, so rising heavily, replied: "Here I am," and remained standing while the drunkard's character and fate were eloquently portrayed. A few minutes later, the preacher reached another head of his discourse, and asked: "Where is the hypocrite?" Gently nudging his neighbor, the drunkard said, in an audible whisper, "Stand up, deacon, he means you 'this time. Stand up and take it like a man, just as I did. It will do you good."

"In dealing with man, remember that a spoonful of oil will go farther than a gallon of vinegar." The same may be said of children. There is nothing so good for children as the old-fashioned castor oil. However much they may abhor it, it is their best medicine for disorders of the bowels. In the more severe cases of diarrhoea and dysentery, however, Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy should be given after the oil operates, and a quick cure is sure to follow. ## STOLE $300,000

Widow of the President of the Louisiana State Lottery Said to Have Stolen a Large Amount From Her Husband's Estate.

New Orleans, Sept. 15.—The grand jury has returned an indictment against Mrs. Rosa La Branche Dauphin, widow of Maximilian Dauphin, for many years president of the Louisiana State Lottery. The action was not made public immediately in order to enable the District Attorney to get the necessary requisition papers from Gov. Heard and arrest Mrs. Dauphin, who is said to be ill in or near New York.

Dauphin, who was president of the Louisiana Lottery Company, died in 1891. His estate was inventoried at $100,000, his widow and a friend being executors. These were other heirs, including Dauphin's mother. The estate was settled up, the heirs were paid their share and the widow and legatee came into possession of the rest of the property.

Eleven years after the settlement among the effects of Judge Porche, who had been Mrs. Dauphin's lawyer in the probate case, an old, badly worn paper was found giving a list of a large number of bonds which apparently formed a part of the Dauphin estate, but which had not figured in the inventory.

Mrs. Dauphin was called on to explain. She failed to appear before a Louisiana court, but place by place the trouble hurried for eleven years was brought to light. Dauphin had kept his money and securities in a box in his room and was a much wealthier man than many supposed. From that box his widow, it is charged, had stolen from the estate and secreted $214,000 in securities and $40,000 in cash. In order to cover up her work she sold the bonds, invested the money in new securities, so that no trace could be found of it. She kept no bank account, and frequently had $100,000 on her person in $1,000 bills.

Judge Lazara, counsel for the heirs, succeeded in tracing every bond for more than twelve years. The court awarded judgment against Mrs. Dauphin for $338,066, the entire amount with interest. Her house was seized, only to find that she had removed everything and had fled.

"Gov. Taylor, of Kentucky."

"By the way, who is Gov. Taylor, of Kentucky," and where and why is he at?" asks the Times. Well, he is a gentleman who made a good Attorney General of Kentucky, having by his industry, capacity and worth, risen from the humble condition of a poor country boy, without help or friends, to the foremost position in his profession. He was elected—and it was so declared by the Democratic canvassing boards—to the office of Governor of Kentucky, by the people of Kentucky at a general State election in November, 1899. And that is who he is.

He was robbed of his office by the forged record of a partisan legislature, and falsely accused upon the word of self-confessed perjurers, of having conspired to procure the assassination of William Goebel, who was seeking to steal his office; and to escape the fate of other Republican officials who have lain in jail for all these years on charges that every honest man knows to be false, and to save himself from being murdered by the robbers and perjurers, he is now living in Indiana by the courtesy of two governors of that State, who have refused to recognize the demands of those wrongfully holding the office to which Gov. Taylor was elected, for his return to the barbarity of the Goebelite gang now in possession of the State—one of whom the Times is. And that is "why and where" Gov. Taylor, of Kentucky, and the Times and its friends are at.

A Story for Boys.

Often one of the best things that can happen to a young man with the right sort of material in him is to be thrown on his resources. Do not complain because you have no one to lean upon. A well known judge once gave his son $1,000 and told him to go to college and graduate.

The son returned at the end of the first year, his money all gone with several extravagant habits. At the close of the vacation the judge said to him:

"Well, William, are you going to college this year?"

"Father, I have no money."

"But I gave you $1,000 to graduate on?"

"It is all gone, father."

"Very well, my son; it is all I could give you. You must now pay your own way in the world."

Republican Ticket.

For Appellate Judge—2nd District.
JUDGE L. D. GUFFY, of Morgantown.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Circuit Judge.

We are authorized to announce W. T. OWEN, of Daviess county, as a candidate for Circuit Judge in the Sixth Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

The Republican State convention of New Hampshire, Connecticut and Alabama have endorsed Roosevelt for President in 1902.

The Daviess county Democratic committee has called a primary for November 4, to nominate a candidate for clerk of the Circuit Court.

The employees of the Western railroads are voting on a demand for an increase of wages. They are sending their ballots to a committee at Kansas City. If they don't win, whose fault will it be?

Will the editor of THE REPUBLICAN please tell the public who authorized him to publish Mr. Birkhead's card in the Owensboro Messenger?—Hartford Herald.

Sorry we did it without authority, but really we didn't know that we had to have it.

"GAM!" you don't tote fair with the Herald in asking it to fight you on the ability of your respective candidates for Circuit Judge. You are not inviting it to battle—it is an invitation to surrender.

THE Owensboro Messenger says William Thompson, of that city, has been sentenced to six months at hard labor in the county jail. But what kind of hard labor can a prisoner perform in the Owensboro jail?

The Herald asks us to defend the official records of Cleveland and Carlisle. Excuse us, neighbor, but it wasn't 16 to 1, but the Wilson bill, that made the administration of these men so disastrous to the country.

SPEAKER Henderson has declined a re-nomination by the Republicans of his district. The late State convention of the Illinois Republicans made a platform demanding certain tariff changes that Speaker Henderson says he cannot endorse.

We want to insist on the people of Ohio county taking an active interest in the Ohio county Fair this fall. Every progressive citizen in the county should bring in something to compete for some one or more of the nice premiums offered.

MR. W. S. BALLS, the present Republican Circuit Clerk of Breckinridge county, will have no opposition for the nomination from the Republican party, and Mr. E. W. Bedford, the present Democratic Circuit Clerk of Daviess county, will have no opposition for the nomination from the Democratic party.

The Elk's Charity Carnival at Owensboro, September 22-26, will be the last exhibition of that character held under the auspices of that popular organization, and a special effort has been put forth to make it a success. A visit to the Carnival will be a pleasant memory for a lifetime and everybody should attend it.

THE Louisville Times says President Diaz, of Mexico, is at 72, serving his sixth term as President of the Republic, and that the country is prosperous and happy under his wise administration of public affairs, and the Hartford Herald says Judge Guffy is too old at 68 for public service, and there you have it.

We have received a copy of the Grayson Leader, a new Republican paper launched in the city of Leitchfield the 11th inst. Mr. George W. Stone is editor and Mr. James L. Rowe, formerly of this paper, is foreman of the mechanical department. Both the editorial and news departments of the Leader are of a character which, if kept up, will make it one of the foremost country papers in the State.

MR. BIRKHEAD is having trouble to keep his cards revised up to the latest action of his committee, fixing a date for the primary. The first issue bears date of November 4; later he had stickers go around and date up to November 12, and still later stickers back to November 4. Mr. Birkhead's cards are getting right sharply daubed over with red ink, and we'd advise him to call them in and have them re-issued.

HERALD VS. LIKENS.

The Herald and Mr. G. B. Likens are having a newspaper controversy as to which is the most partisan Democrat, Judge Owen or Mr. Birkhead.

Last week the Herald fired a nice stick editorial at Judge Owen, the butt of which was that Owen would not make affidavit, when the legislature was about to put Ohio county in a Republican judicial district, that he could do the business of the district without making it smaller. This week Mr. G. B. Likens, in a signed letter in the Herald, produces an affidavit that Owen did say he could do the business, and "Gabe," as the Herald familiarly calls him, goes one better and by the affidavit of a Democratic Representative proves that Mr. Thomas F. Birkhead did actually sign a petition asking the legislature to put Ohio county in a Republican district.

This is not our fight, but, we are just giving our readers a sample of how Democratic leaders qualify a candidate for the high office of Circuit Judge.

WRECK OF A SOUL.

Lucifer and His Roundsmen Hold a Midnight Conference.

Lucifer. The furnaces, what of them?

Roundsmen. All full but one.

Luc. Why empty?

Roundsmen. Waiting.

Luc. How long?

Roundsmen. Worth the time.

Luc. The bonds.

Roundsmen. They cannot be forfeited.

Luc. Erase your ciphers. Talk.

Roundsmen. A young woman—

Luc. Beautiful?

Roundsmen. Beautiful as the last ray of throne-light that faded on our fall—

Luc. Sheathe your eting; no more of that day.

Roundsmen. No more. But her face will be beautiful in distortion, and her voice, rich and sweet, will thrill you with its wail.

Luc. A catch of the night?

Roundsmen. Yes; and of this hour?

Luc. Er' this?

Roundsmen. As pure as the crystal waters that flowed by the—

Luc. Nameless! I'll pillar thee for thy sting.

Roundsmen. Spare me, but I share with you the price of a live memory.

Luc. For the last time. But are you sure my dominion is the richer for the night?

Roundsmen. Sure.

Luc. I threof these walls and moans and floodless tears; detail our conquest.

Roundsmen. Earth's night-robes favor them. The wheels turn slowly, and the steeds are spared that soul may revel.

Luc. Was this soul not already mine?

Roundsmen. No. Not until to-night were her lips scorched with a kiss, nor 'till to-night did her heart dwell with its like.

Luc. Then yet it is not wholly mine?

Roundsmen. But the carriage shakes to aliver heads a flash of ancient vintage.

Luc. Good. Go leisurely on your rounds. I wait with gleeful patience.

Disobeys the Order.

Bowling Green, Sept. 16.—By a decision of County Judge Charles Drake Mr. Luther R. Potter, the former banker, his wife and baby, were ordered to go to the pethouse.

Mr. Potter resides in the most fashionable neighborhood in the city and the appearance of the disease has caused a sensation.

Two other children of Mr. Potter were sent to Smith's Grove, the home of their grandparents, the Rev. and Mrs. J. S. Grider, it being claimed that these children had not been exposed to the disease.

Little Amelia Potter, the child suffering from smallpox, is otherwise in poor health. Dr. J. N. McCormick, Secretary of the State board of Health and the local health officers, issued a request according to the statutes for Mr. and Mrs. Potter and their child to go to the pethouse. Owing to the physical condition of the baby, its parents refused to obey. The authorities then issued warrants for their removal, and the family was quarantined. Mr. Potter instituted habeas corpus proceedings, but after a hearing the writ was denied. Potter's attorneys will attempt injunction proceedings, and hope to prevent the removal of the parents and their child.

The case has attracted more local attention than anything which has happened here in years.

Don't Shut Down the Mill.

"When I was a boy we could always tell when the old miller was picking his burrs, because the mill was shut down. I anticipate there will be found those who will not favor shutting down the mill while we are turning out as good a quality of flour as at present, especially if it is likely to take very long to repair conditions."

Notice to Tax Payers.

I am mailing notices this week to delinquent tax-payers with statement of when and where they may meet me or one of my deputies in their localities to pay their tax.

Recent statutes relative to the Sheriff's settlements with the State are very strict and I must collect the money to meet my settlements.

You do not owe me, you owe the county and State, and I am their agent to collect your taxes. For the non-performance of my duty, the penalties are severe and I can and will collect the money. I should be sorry to add additional cost, but your taxes must be paid at once or I shall order my deputies to take money or property as they go.

The six per cent penalty will soon go on all tax unpaid, but I want to leave this in the pockets of the people. If you fail to heed this warning, I shall be compelled to restrain property for taxes and you will have then no just right to complain.

Yours truly,

C. P. KROWN, S. O. C.

A REPLY.

Rev. Geo. W. Tifford Defends His Position on Whisky Traffic.

In the issue of the Rockport News of August the 22d, under the caption "Stripped of His Ministerial Robe," I am unjustly taken to task and publicly written up for my stand on the question of whether it is better to have blind tigers or an open saloon in the town of Rockport.

Now, in the first place, I consider this question merely as a political issue, and one upon which each and every man has a free and perfect right to exercise the right of suffrage. I, as any other citizen, considered the question of the greater of two evils and chose, as I thought then, and still think the lesser of the two—to have open saloons where whiskey is sold according to law and where boys under age cannot procure it, or to have blind tigers where it is sold to any one having the price of a drink.

After giving the above stated question years of study and also having had the sad experience of living in a town, where blind tigers were plentiful, in my honest judgment, and believing that I am right, I favored open saloons, not open saloons where the pernicious stuff would not be sold otherwise, but open saloons in preference to blind tigers. You may claim that the law is sufficient to knock out the blind tigers; so it has always been if it had only been enforced, but what evidence have you that it will be enforced any more now than in the past?

My standing on the whiskey question is no secret. What I am, I am, and the same to all men, the same to their race that I am to their back. That I have done my duty as I saw best, both religiously and politically, I feel certain. In the sarcastic writing-up given me in the News, which was the result of mere prejudice, the editor of that sheet undoubtedly shows his utter ignorance of church affairs, as well as other things, however well he may be up on the art of ridicule.

Any one who knows anything about church affairs knows that the church is the highest authority in a case of this kind. We would suggest that the brother pay a little more attention to the workings of such organizations before he attempts to hold some one else up to ridicule simply because they differ from him in a political matter. If he should study these things a little closer he would doubtless fall to show his gross ignorance so plainly when he takes up the quill to hold some other brother, who happens to differ from him, up to ridicule.

In his spare filter of slang devoted to me, he says I had the case of my dismissal brought up before the General Association. Such a statement is absolutely destitute of truth though it was published in his paper and for his readers to read. Don't the author know that the General Association has not yet assembled this year? Such is the case at any rate, as all who are at all informed know.

The association which was in session and adjourned a short time since was only the annual association and positively had nothing to do with such cases. The General Association does not meet until about the last of November.

As to the moral standing of the town since open saloons have been in vogue I would cite you to the amount of fines collected since they opened up. Fines for the latter part of June were about $8; for July about $32; for the month of August nothing, and for the month of September nothing to date. How is that compared with blind tiger reign? Darling blind tiger supremacy if all persons violating the town ordinances had been arrested and fined according to law the fines would have exceeded $25 per month. How many windows have been smashed since the advent of the saloon? How many pistols have been discharged within the town limits in comparison with the number discharged in one single night during blind tiger times? How many times has the hotel and post office been shot into since we have had open saloons? Now these are pertinent questions and fair ones, and questions that have no tendency to ridicule, and above all, this is not to vent personal animosity or to abuse, but simply to defend myself, as I pride myself on having honor enough that if I have anything personally against a man to go to him face to face and tell him instead of resorting to newspaper publicity and trying to make personal matters public. Hence this article is written only in the spirit of self-defense. My position has been stated and all who read can know that I have been attacked through the columns of the News for no other purpose than to ridicule my actions in a matter that does not in the least concern the editor of the News. A good policy for men to adopt is to attend to their own affairs. A thing I have done, but am sorry to say I can't say so much for the editor of the News, who willfully wrote an article ridiculing me and published, as he says, "As a mere news item" and then invites me to engage with him in some mud-slinging. A pitch battle of words is what you want, eh? First show yourself competent to discuss this, or any other matter, impartially and in an intelligible way, and then promise to keep your pen out of vitriol and I shall try to defend myself as best I can.

GEORGE W. TIFFORD,
Town Marshal, Rockport.

OIL FOUND

In a Well at Narrows in Eastern End of County.

While digging a well for his business house at Narrows, Mr. John B. Renfrow struck a phenomenal flow of oil at a depth of about thirty-five feet. The workman, who was digging in the well, was mystified when he struck a flow of a heavy black oily fluid and notified the man above to haul him aloft.

The news spread quickly over the little village and in ten minutes fifty men were in the vicinity of the find. A bystander whose interest was excited, volunteered to go down into the well and bring up a quantity of the black fluid which he quickly did. A bucket of the oil was brought to the surface and when a match was applied to it the flames shot up several feet. That it is an oil of high grade, there can be little doubt, and an effort will be made by Mr. Renfrow and other citizens of the town to make further investigations into the rich deposits of oil that is believed to lie at no very great depth below the surface of the earth.

Brother Romans Dead. Rev. R. F. Romans died of a congestive chill at his home near Horton Monday, and was buried at Liberty burying grounds. He was not a great preacher, but in his humble, homely way, he preached the gospel, as he saw it, with reverence and earnestness, but it was rather the gospel he lived than the gospel he preached for which he will be remembered on earth and rewarded in Heaven.

John Byers Dead.

Mr. John Byers died of Bright's disease at his residence three miles east of Horse Branch Wednesday and was buried Thursday on the farm on which he lived. Mr. Byers was about sixty-five years old at the time of his death, and was a citizen who enjoyed the confidence and good will of those who knew him.

Trees Full of Peaches.

Mrs. Polly Crow, who lives on Grove avenue, has two trees that are loaded with fine peaches. They are probably the only trees in the county that have more than a very small quantity of fruit. The trees stand in a protected situation, and were not injured by the sleet last winter or the frosts of the spring.—Inquirer.

Home Telephone Company.

The people of Ohio county should be commended for their loyalty to the Home Telephone Company.

Four years ago some of our enterprising citizens, recognizing the need for a telephone system in Ohio county, risked their money and efforts in supplying the need, and put in an exchange here with lines reaching out to every important section of the county.

Soon after the organization of the Home Company the Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Company, a foreign corporation, entered the field and offered various inducements to our people to give their patronage to that company, but Ohio county people very sensibly reserved their patronage for the Home Company.

It is fortunate for our home people that they took this sensible view of situation. If the Home Company were out of the way this foreign corporation would raise their toll rate to prices exacted in other towns where it has no competition.

The Home Company is owned and operated by home people and should have the patronage of home people.

The Cumberland Company have a manager from Tennessee, and an exchange operator, who does not live in the county, while the Home Company pays every dollar of its expenses to Ohio county people. The Home Company gives a very reasonable toll rate, and its existence is vital to the people of the county, and they are going to support it.

A SHOOTING SCRAPE.

Harry Woodburn Shoots the Marshal of Rockport and Lands in Jail.

Monday night a gang of toughs, who have been terrorizing the good people of Rockport for sometime went on their peripatetic rampage in which they were contributing pretty freely to the powder trust. Mr. George W. Tilford, marshal of Rockport, undertook to quell the riot, when Harry Woodburn took a crack at him with a shotgun. Fortunately the men were so far apart that though hit, the marshal was not seriously wounded. In attempting to draw his pistol from his pocket, the marshal shot himself through the right foot. The Sheriff was telephoned for and he sent two of his deputies to Rockport and they arrested young Woodburn and brought him here Tuesday morning and locked him up to await the action of the grand jury.

A more serious charge will probably be lodged against Woodburn. Monday afternoon while the family were away, Mark Howard's residence, near Rockport, was entered and robbed of about $25 in cash. Mr. Howard telephoned to Dundee for bloodhounds, and the dogs took a trail from Howard's residence and followed it to the home of Woodburn. When arrested Woodburn had about $12 on his person in small bills such as had been stolen from Howard's house. When questioned about where he got the money, he claimed to have found it.

Woodburn is about eighteen years old and is said to be a pretty tough character. He is a son of Mr. Henry Woodburn, a farmer living near Rockport.

Henry Woodburn is one of the very best citizens in the county, and has, we understand, made persistent but futile efforts to correct the habits of the boy.

A young man, by the name of Squid Williams, who was in the shooting scrape, and who the bloodhounds also trailed to his home, fled, but H. H. Pierce, deputy marshal of Rockport, followed the lad and arrested him at Paducah.

Young Williams walked to Central City and boarded a train for Paducah. Pierce made the trip on the same train with Williams, but did not see him until they reached that city. Pierce reached Hartford with his catch Wednesday afternoon and landed him in jail.

When caught Williams had about six dollars in small bills on his person, and this with the six dollars paid for his ticket to Paducah amounts to about half of the sum taken from Howard's house. As stated above, young Woodburn had about the amount of the other half.

These boys are chums, and while quiet enough when sober, are said to be pretty tough when drinking. They will likely leave off drink for a while at least.

A Pious Preacher Dies.

Rev. James Davis died of paralysis at his residence near Mt. Pleasant Tuesday night and was buried at Mt. Pleasant cemetery yesterday. Rev. D. J. K. Maddox preached the funeral. Brother Davis had been a preacher of the Baptist church for fifty years, and was about seventy years old at the time of his death.

He was born and raised in the community in which he died, and gave his life work to the upbuilding of his home people. May his spirit rest in peace.
